

Again

by JD Cordlé (copyright August 4, 1998)

You may think that this is all over
But your turn will come around
Tomorrow the sun will come up and the moon will go down;
Again, again and again
Please don't do that again.

I've seen you many times yeah I really know you
You've tried to lie your way out but I could always see right through
Again, again and again
Please don't do that again.

I once had someone tell me a fairytale
About this place that was always bright and warm
But man you can't fool me cause I live here, and it feels a lot like hell.
Again, again and again
Please don't lie to me again.

You never listened to last call
Sometimes I wonder who the hell you think you are after all
Again, again and again.
Please don't bother me again.